

ABSTRACT

A pedestal adapted to support a floor panel comprising a base, support means for supporting said floor panel above said base, displaceable means
5 operable between said base and said support means for selectively displacing said support means and said floor panel relative said base so as to level said floor panel while said floor panel is supported by said support means.